THE TRIBUNE.

OF JAMES MARSH, D. D. By JOHN WHEELER, D. D. President of the University of Vermont. Burlington Chauncey Goodrich: New-York, Dayton & Newman. This is the title of an excellent Oration delivered at the Funeral of the late distinguished Professor of Philosophy in the Vermont University. President Wheeler was a College Associate of Dr. Marsh, and for more than thirty years had enjoyed his intimate personal acquaintance-which no man was better fitted to appreciate. His knowledge of the character of his departed friend, his heartfelt interest in the success of the great truths he labored so successfully to teach, and his eminent abilities qualified him, in a peculiar manner, to prepare the valuable discourse which is now before us. The friends and admirers of the late Professor will find it a worthy tribute to his memory, and containing instructive hints on topics of the highest interest. The following passage unfolding the real worth of the true Scholar, and the error often -nay always made in forming an estimate of his character, is worthy especial attention :-

"It is not only because men may possess flesh and sense that the highest qualities of their character are more or less obscured to our vision; but we ourselves are so filled with thoughts and plans about the present, that we cannot pause to notice and study the character of our friends. It often is not until death has broken the earthly relations we sustain in them, that we begin to open our eyes to their true character, and contemplate them in reference to what goes before, and what follows after. And this is especially true of those retired scholars who are not frequently and constantly with us .-Our attention being occupied with the employments of life, we do not pause to notice any thing but what immediately concerns these employments .-We are content to leave the character of others unthought of or unexamined; or take up notices of their excellence, or of their folly or wickedness, from the opinions which the interests of sect or of party have given them. How very often popular indignation becomes the distorting medium through which a good man is seen,-popular indignation excited perhaps, only because, like a far-sighted parent, he sought to guide and control the public feeling to the best, and most useful ends. How often an accidental and momentary popularity is the soul ground of the elevated rank, which we as sign to some favorite of our friends, and how often we open our ears to public slander, or to private scandal, and make them the witnesses upon whose testimony we form our opinions of the worth, or the weakness of those called great. It is thus, that our eyes are often holden, that we may not know the excellence that really pertains to the men of one own day.

"It is moreover true that real greatness is seldom or never obtrusive in its pretensions. It is never fitful and uneasy lest it should not be noticed and find its right place, and it does not therefore urge itself into the front ranks of active and bustling life. It is more allied to the divine wisdom which shows itself oftenest and best, not in the tempest and the earthquake, but in some still small voice of ministering kindness-in the rain that falls, in the dew that distils. The spontaneous feelings of the heart, those which belong to the essential characteristics of our humanity, and which draw forth by the most kindly influences the same in others to meet and coalesce in oneness of spirit, that they may proceed in harmony of opinion and action, issue forth only in hours of quiet, in seasons of rest and repose. The busy world, as it hurries on, does not heed such, and therefore the man, who possesses them is hidden from their eyes. He reposes in the calm consciousness of his own strength, never using it, until he feels the time has come, which calls for its exercise, and then he comes forth to guide and control others, or from his closet gives his counsels of wisdom and points out the way of success to those, who rejoice in the active toil of busy effort. He loves not the bustle of the comitia, he delights not in the publicity of the forum. Unknown though he seems to be, he quietly unfolds truths, and from the deep and hidden fountains of his own bosom pours forth the pure waters of living thought. Who hears the name of Caius Laclius-and vet Scipio the conqueror of Hannibal, speaks of himself as but executing the designs of that philosopher. Who recalls the name of Publius Nigidius-and yet Cicero confesses that Nigidius was the author of his noblest actions, and himself the joyful executive of another's plans. And who does not remember that after all, it was the poor wise man, who saved the city? So true is it, that the eyes of men are holden, that they should not know without earnest enquiry and deep reflection, or without having the temporary veil of earthly relations removed, the surpassing excellence that belongs to those, who are the highest and the best representatives of our humanity.'

RANDOM SHOTS AND SOUTHERN BREEZES-Containing crit ical remarks on the Southern States and Southern Institutions, with semi-serious Observations on Men and Manners. By LOUIS FITZGERALD TASISTRO. In two volumes. New-York—Harper & Brothers.

As their very title would indicate, these volumes evidently grew out of a desire to make a book: and yet we find in them much that is interesting and pleasant, and somewhat that may be valuable and instructive. The author does not confine himself by any means to the topics-multifarious as they were-which fell under his immediate notice during his Southern tour; but runs off at every step in pursuit of some thought or train of speculation suggested, perhaps, by the scenes of which he is either an actor or spectator, but quite as likely to be dragged in by main ferce for the express purpose of waxing profound, eloquent, poetic or humorous about them-as the case may be .-Of course, the work has little method and no single aim, unless it be the innocent one of giving pleasure to a reader for an evening .- But this, indeed does not properly express its worth: for the literary criticisms and rambling dissertations, which Mr. Tasistro has scattered somewhat profusely through the book, contain much that is valuable and true-though it be seither very profound nor coss prehensive. The author's reading has been very extensive, and he has a mind naturally disposed to be critical. He throws out many hints concerning literature and art that may be of service, and has made a much better work than nine out of ten of those who would be likely to write one of the same general character would be able to do. The volumes will well repay a rapid and not too critical

WASHINGTON COLLEGE .- The Annual Compencement of this Institution was held on Thursday last, the 4th inst. Its Exercises are said to have been unusually interesting. The Alumni held their meeting on the morning of the 3d, and in the afternoon a Poem was delivered before the Literary Societies by Rev. J. H. NICHOLS of New-Haven. His subject was 'The Future.' The degree of A. B. was conferred upon the 24 members of the graduating class. This is the largest class ever graduated at the institution. The degree of A. M. was conferred on 10 Alumni. The degree of LL. D. was conferred on Chauncey F. Cleveland, Governor of Connecticut, and on Joseph Green Cogswell, of New-York. Mr. Cogswell was the editor of the New-York Review, and a ripe scholar.

VOL. II. NO. 104.

GENEVA COLLEGE .- The Annual Commencenent at Geneva was celebrated on the 3d instant. The address of Professor POTTER of Union Col. lege, on "The Spirit of the Age," was highly interesting. A poem was delivered by Mr. Dann of Avon. The honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity was conferred on Rev. A. U. Bethune, Coburg, Upper Canada; Rev. Nicholas H. Cobbs, Petersburg, Virginia; Rev. Benjamine C: Taylor, Bergen, New-Jersey. The degree of LL. D. was conferred on the venerable Vincent H. Mathews of Rochester, the father of the Western Bar.

EMIGRATION TO THE BRITISH PROVINCES .- Canadian and New-Brunswick papers contain loud complaints of the thousands of destitute foreigners from the Old World thrown upon their shores penniless and destitute of the means of subsistence. At St. Johns, N. B., a special meeting of magistrates has been held to devise relief; but the St. Johns Herald says that the only thing which can be done is to urge upon the home Government the necessity of taking some measures to prevent the Province from being overwhelmed by such a torrent of helplessness and poverty as has flowed upon their shores for the last twelve months.

CLAY IN ROCHESTER .- The Rochester Deme crat says that they have received a call for a Mass CLAY MEETING, signed by seven or eight hundred names-of the most respectable men in the city. Western New-York is all alive for HENRY CLAY and a PROTECTIVE TARIFF. The Farmers of all that beautiful region loudly demand the Election of the great Western Statesman, for they see that it is the sole condition of general prosperity. With the feeling that prevails there we apprehend the meeting will be one of the largest and most enthusiastic ever held in that vicinity.

THE SPIRIT OF PENNSYLVANIA .- Oliver Oldschool, the Washington Correspondent of the U.S. Gazette, gives the following extract of a letter received by a member of Congress from a gentleman in interior Pennsylvania, who 'is not a political friend of Mr. CLAY and never has been':

"CLAY is going at a canter in Pennsylvania. Every act of Tyler helps him and will continue to do so. Poor Tyler is more fool than knave, and that is saying a great deal. Die with the land bill rather than record your vote in submission to a tyrant. I shall suffer much from the want of a tariff, but I had rather be a bankrupt than a slave.

HENRY CLAY .- The Democratic Review, the ORGAN, par excellence, of its party, in its last number, has an article headed, 'Clay in the field again.' The article thus opens:

"Clay is a fine fellow. He is so bold, he is so brave, and in the political melee he rides thundering along at the head of his hosts, in the van of the strife, so gallantly, and with so haughty a crest! Like the panache of Henry IV., wherever tue fight is hottest ane the blows the heaviest, there streams its white flutter as the signal to his friends of the point of pressure, and the direction to which rhey should follow. He is a man, ever inch of him-worth fighting, worth beating.

And it is thus that the noble and gallant ' Harry of the West' extorts admiration even from his bitterest political opponents. They cannot help vielding him the tribute of their praise.

[Alexandria Gazette. HENRY CLAY IN MASSACHUSETTS .- The Whigs of the Old Bay State will hold a great Convention at Fancuil Hall on the 14th of next month, to nominate Candidates for Governor and Lieutenant Governor. The Convention will speak in thunder tones against the Judas of the White House, and in language, too, that will tell what the true Whigs of Old Massachusetts consider of his treachery. The banner of HENRY CLAY, the fearless and patrie ic Statesman of the West, will also be unfurled to the breeze; and who doubts that victory will crown our efforts? In Harry of the West we shall have a Candidate for the Presidency whose measures are the measures which led the Whigs on to that glorious victory of 1340-the fruits of which have been lost by the betraval of a vascilating President. Massachusetts will render a good account of herself this year, by electing Honest John Davis Governor. and in 1844, by casting her Electoral vote for Harry of the West. [American Cor.

STAGE ACCIDENT-We learn that there was quite a serious accident on Thursday, on the South road between this and Batavia. The stage. with ten passengers, was coming down the hills in Darien, at a rapid rate, when, as the driver slightly reined out to pass an ascending stage, the coach upset with great violence, smashing the side which struck the ground, and injuring more or less every one on board, except an infant child and an Irishman. One gentleman had an arm broken and others suffered from contusions on the head and various parts of the body. The too common practice of driving fast down hill cannot be too severely reprobated. How to DETECT COUNTERFEIT COIN .- Take a clean slip of common sheet zinc about two inches by one half, and lay it upon the tongue; place a genuine silver coin under the tongue, and on bringing the silver and zinc together, a pungent and dis-greeable taste will be perceived. Substitute, now, a coin suspected to be counterfeit, in the place of the genuine coin, and a very slight if any taste will be perceived. The false coin of half dollars, dimes and half dimes, is made mostly of German silver, and produces scarcely any galvanic action with a

PHILADELPHIA, Monday, Aug. 8. The Democratic Whigs of the several Wards and Townships in the City and County of Philadelphia meet this evening for the purpose of electing Delegates to the County Convention. It is a serious question now how far the refusal of Gov. Porter to allow the Apportionment bill to become a law will affect the Fall Elections. The Key-Stone, at Harrisburg, assures its Democratic brethren throughout the State that under the existing circumstances there cannot be an election for Member of Congress held this year. So much for following the great "Accidental" in the matter of

There were 128 deaths in our city last week, of whom 39 were adults and 89 children. Jonathan Coffee, Esq., known to many of your merchants as late Superintendent of our Exchange, died yesterday of consumption.

The indications, or rather demonstrations of enthusiasm, in favor of Mr. Clay, throughout the State, are daily increasing. Every newspaper from the interior gives cheering evidence of this.

Sales at the Stock Board to-day amount to the enermous sum of $200 !! and this is about the daily average. What a change! It is extremely gratifying, however, to perceive that there are already no slight symptoms of improvement in business. The boxes and packages which begin to lumber up the Market-street pavement, showing their country destination, may be taken as proof that our city only awaits the favorable action of the Head of the Nation to start anew in the race of business competition.

Several important arrests of rioters have been made within a day or two; one, particularly, of a powerful and desperate black named Harvey, for firing a gun in the crowd heavily loaded. Several white rowdies have also been committed in addition to these already noticed.

Four valuable horses were destroyed yesterday ov the burning of a stable.

Another murder disgraces our city. A fellow named Milby Ake inflicted blows upon Hannah Merris, colored, of which she died. Verdict in accordance with these facts.

Mr. Walter, the distinguished Architect of Girard College, is, I regret to perceive, an applicant for the benefit of the Bankrupt Law. He is an honest, worthy man, who, in carrying out the erbitrary law laid down in the Will for the construction of the College, has subjected himself to much unmerited odium, and, as it now appears, without any corresponding benefit to himself.

M. De Badisco, the Russian Embassador at Washington, whose marriage with the pretty chool-girl created so great a sensation some time ince, is, with his beautiful lady and suite, at Cape May, our Philadelphia fashionable watering place.

Charles Canfield, a young citizen, was severely njured yesterday by the very foolish, but too comnon practice of jumping out of a runaway vehicle. Always stick to the carriage and trust the consequences.

There are very great complaints in our market, of the way in which your New-York purveyors strip our beef and vegetable stalls. Peaches are selling at from $4 to $6 per bushel, from this cause. In fact, it is roundly asserted that, not satisfied with learing our markets of all the choice matters, you have even gone so far as to buy up our entire peach orchards. This is certainly a most outrageous monopoly, and one to which we cannot comfortably

THE OREGON FUR TRADE. - This valuable trafic, which is at once the instrument of expleration, and the nursery of seamen, was by the convention of 1818 suffered to be pursued promiscuously by British and Americans, andtin consequence of that suicidal provision, is fast being diverted from the latter to the former. Our expert of furs to Canton amounted in 1821, to $43,000; in 1832, to about $200,000; and in 1839, to $56,000; showing a gradual decrease between the years 1821 and 1839 of more than sever-eighths, in the amount and value of this trade. A better practical commentary is not needed upon the effect of our logislation. And while Americans are thus annually withdrawing from this trade, Great Britain is extending her facilities for commanding it every day. Her hunters and trappers are scattered over the whole extent of the Territory, nor are they content with the legitimate profits of the business. While within the British territory, the strictest provisions are made to prevent the destruction of game unnecessarily; no such precautions are enforced here, but on the contrary, the Indians and others are encouraged to hunt at all seasons of the year, without regard to the preservation of game. The result of this will be the extermination of the beaver and other animals killed for their fur, within a few years, unless the United States interfere. [Cin. Chron.

RIGHT END UP .- A gentleman a few days since called upon an old lady, not a mile from Jamesstreet in this village, when, upon walking into the parlor, his notice was arrested by one of the portraits which ornamented the walls, that was suspended bottom end up. On nearer inspection, he saw it was the likeness of President Tyler, hanging between those of Harrison and Van Buren. with his head downward. "Why, what does this mean?" said he, addressing the old lady. "What does this mean?" she replied, "it means just as it is. John Tyler is on his head. He undertook to throw a somerset from the Whigs to the Loco-Focos, but the Locos would n't have him, and stopt him half way, and the Whigs won't take him back, and there the miserable fellow stands on his head between them." The old lady was right: she defined the President's position exactly. The death of Mr. GRAHAM, the faithful historian of our country from its settlement to the Declaration of Independence, announced in the late foreign journals, has not excited the remark in this country that the demise of one who possessed so much claim to our respect might have been expected to inspire. Independent of his literary pretensions, Mr. G. was a gentleman of high morality and personal worth. The death of the Swiss historian SISMONDI and of Dr. ARNOLD. The Points of the Treaty. As we learn from Washington, the following are the points of the Treaty agreed upon: The Boundary Line of Maine meets the Great Falls of the St. John on the North, follows the course of that River North-West to the junction of the Madawasca, then comes South-West on the line of the same river to its connection with the St. Francis, where it again starts North-West, and near midway between the high lands, and the St. John, again branches to the South-West, till it reaches the old undisputed line. We have nearly the line marked out by the King of the Netherlands, except a small strip at the base of the at the lowest calculation, reaches 450,000 bushels, North-Westernmost Highlands, which the British | an increase of 120,000 bushelsover last year's crop. Negotiation insisted upon having, to keep us from being too near the St. Lawrence, the territory being good for nothing, and not of the least possisible importance to us.

For this, and a quit claim to the North-Easternmost angle of Maine, (under the line we claim." Rouse's Point, an island in Lake Superior, and some other islands in the Lakes, and right and benefit of the use of the St. John, are ceded to us

Whatever lumber or produce (unmanufactured) comes from the St. John, or the tributaries of the St. John, is to be subjected to no more duties than provincial lumber or produce in British ports, and s to have the same benefits and privileges. There is, we suspect, something left indefinite as to what shall be deemed the tributaries of the St. John; for it might be a question whether Maine would not be checked in concentrating large amounts of produce upon the St. John.

There are now two tributaries of the St. John on which a good deal of lumber business is donethe Arsostook and the Meduxnekeag. The valley of the Aroostook is fertile, and is now undisputedly ours. The French population at Madawaska, South of the St. John is surrendered to us. No American citizens are given up, but all the settled portions of the territory are given to us. Houlton is on the Meduxnekeag, and its lumber will run down the St. John.

The Port of St. John, being a free port, American vessels can enter there and take lumber to the United States, or lumber brought there can go to the British West India Islands or to England, in British vessels, having the benefit of the British rate of duties. It will be remembered that a great deal of lamber taken by the squatters, on the Disputed Territory, has been held subject to a Treaty or to agreement. This has been sold, and Maine is to have the benefit of the proceeds, if there are any. The accounts already given of what the Federal Government is to pay Maine and Massachusetts are correct. This is a matter with which the British Government have nothing to do. It is behalf of the Federal Government, and the Commissioners of Maine and Massachusetts. For the attack and burning of the steambeat Caroline there is to be, as is believed, an indem-a matter of agreement between Mr. Webster on nity, if not apelogy.

The case of the Creole has created a great deal of discussion. Great Britain will pay nothing for the negroes in the case of the Creole. This is a point settled, and all efforts to unsettle it have been in vain. Great Britain, however, is willing to make arrangements for the future, to provide by treaty for like cases, and so far, we think, a step has been taken.

The Boundary Line agreed upon, runs to the Rocky Mourtains, and leaves unsettled the question of the Oregon Territory. There is nothing lost by this, for our Emigrants are daily settling this question. We grow stronger there by time, and become nearer too.

The Right of Search, so called, we hear, has not been touched. It should not be. This is a matter we cannot negotiate upon. There is no right of search. The seas are free-and why make terms upon an axiom? We should not be surprised, however, if some arrangements had been entered into for the keeping an American [Express. squadren in the African seas.

FIRE PROOF IRON SAFES .- There can be no greater evidence of the high estimation by the public of Wilder's Patent Salamander Sale than the fact, that since the invention of these Sales and their subsequent trials and tests, almost every thing made for the purpose of holding books and papers are called by the makers and noiding noors and papers are called by the makers and venders by the name of Salamander Safes.

The following gentlemen composed a Committee of Merchants at the trial of safes in a blast furnace near the foot of Wall-street, and decided in favor of Wilder's Parent Safe, which was the only one that stood the test, viz:

TOSEPH GILLOTT, Pen Manufacturer

TO THE QUEEN.—CAUTION.—The kigh character of these Pens has induced the attempt, on the part of several disreputable makers, to practice a fraud not only upon Mr. Gillett, but also upon the public. An inferior acticle, bearing the misspelled name, thus, Gillot, omitting the final t, is now in the market. It can readily be detected by its antinished appearance, and the very common style in which it is not up.

Observe, the genuine Poss are are all marked in full—
"Joseph Gillott's Patent," or "Joseph Gillott, warranted," and that each gross hears a fac simile of his signature.
